

Multi-state models for recurrent events

Per Kragh Andersen

Analysis of recurrent events can proceed in two different directions: intensity-based models or marginal models. Both types of model will be discussed and exemplified using data from psychiatry. Special attention will be paid to the application of pseudo-values when analyzing marginal models.